Family gathering.

Notes:

Back in October Chris Hardy proposed a family gathering in the Stratford Haven on Boxing Day. Tansin volunteered moving the assembly to her Dad's house. Roy had erupted at our Bonfire party as, he said, he hadn't been consulted and he isn't on Whatsapp, where the discussion was taking place. After Chris checked with him he confirmed he was happy to host the event and in due course it happened.

For the first time ever we, far from being an hour or so late, were 30 minutes early. This because I thought it started at 2pm, Joseph got his Mum organised by 2.30 and it didn't kick off until 3pm. Trevor and Judith who I had been hoping to see for half an hour (they were coming early as they had another event that afternoon) didn't make it. Other notable absences were Jeanette and Steve; Nigel and Sharron; Simon and Elaine, Em, and Harry Riley.

Roy organised a group photograph out in the street, which was a brilliant move. I had brought some equipment to take individual shots but could not find my flash gun after everyone had arrived. By the time I started taking pictures Chris, Ren and Elio; and Fred had left.

Working with fixed focal length, hand held and no flash, was tricky but some of the shots held together remarkably well.

Joseph was brilliant throughout and I was lucky enough to earwig some stuff about his first two years at Sheffield that I never knew.
