Subject:

Boris and the Satterthwaite Project.

Notes:

Shots of Boris as a kitten in Clissold Crescent. I wonder who looked after him while we were away? Kiki perhaps? Then Techno Cameras on Euston Road to buy Zuiko 28mm/3.5 lens (with case and hood). It cost me £97 wow! That's £3,400 at today's prices. That was a hell of an investment in a college project.

I think the building site is Euston Road too, possibly the Euston Station Plaza which was redeveloped in the late 1970s. Wonder what the vantage point was?

The remainder of the shots are of the arrival at Grizedale Campsite, the planned campsite for the Satterthwaite study prior to the the exodus to Satterthwaite Farm.

Me and Mags travelled up with Philip and Claire in Philip's mini. It seems I was using up an old colour film before switching to HP5 for the project. I suspect that what was happening here was that Philip insisted that as we had missed lunch on the drive up we should eat and drink before we set up the tents. Then we got thrown off the campsite, I can't quite remember why. Perhaps we had arrived at the wrong time of day or something of that ilk or maybe it was the size of party that was the problem (once the others had arrived).

Philip made enquiries at Satterthwaite Post Office where we were told that a local farmer Alan Dugdale sometimes had campers on his field behind the farm house.

Best thing that ever happened. Camping on Alan Dugdale's field led to one of the best fortnights in my life, possibly because when Philip and Gerhard asked me to join them on the project I think it was the first time in my life I'd been chosen for the team.

Dates:

The dates are pretty certain on this roll. 26th May 1978 is confirmed by a receipt from Techo Cameras which means we couldn't have travelled to the Lakes until the Saturday. We must have set out very early because the shadows in Grizedale/Satterthwaite indicate a time not much after midday which would 1pm BST not 4 or 5pm as I had at first assumed.
