Rule of odds U3A project

Notes:

Blown rose blossoms on the fish pond wall at the memorial gardens. The shots were taken as part of a U3A photography project ostensibly to demonstrate the rule of odds. This is a "rule" that I find very tentative. In many situations the purpose is to capture or record people, places or events where odd or even cannot be chosen by the framing of the shot. It is all very well if we are composing subjects for the camera as in art or advertising but the opportunities so to do may well be limited for the common, or garden photographer.
